About UWS

The University of the West of Scotland (UWS) was established in 1897, it is one of the biggest modern universities in Scotland with high growth potential. UWS is placed by the Times Higher Education in the top 500 universities in their 2019 World University Rankings; joint 48th position within the UK; and in the top 150 in THE's Young University Rankings 2018. Our Education programme is ranked 2nd in the 2019 Complete University Guide and our Civil Engineering programme achieved 5th in the UK in the Guardian league tables.

We also interpret UWS as Universal Work-ready Student, with the view that your first day at UWS is your first day in industry. It is our goal to provide a career-based education where students can build work experience from all activities.

About the B&E Internship Summer School

The programme is designed for international students with all English abilities to learn how to work on a project and build work experience. Students will act as Brand Ambassadors between a UK organisation and their home country to conduct market research, and to develop social media promotional activity and marketing activities. Students will also have the chance to learn about British culture and aspects of Scotland, and to participate in friendly social activities, including trips to Edinburgh, Loch Lomond and local companies.

Join us this year to make friends, build up your team, gain work experience and explore Scotland!
